CAMBRIDGE HIGH AND LATIN SCHOOL

The class of 1943 wishes to extend its deepest gratitude to Mr. Downey for the friendly understanding he has always shown us. For his sympathetic counsel in our problems we shall always regard him as a sincere friend.

DOROTHY NASH.

Prologue

With a feeling akin to regret comes the realization that our high school days are ended, that we, as a class, are about to separate. We have reached the end of one road together; the next we must travel apart. Of all the pleasant experiences and associations which we enjoyed in common, there now remain with us only the cherished memories.

It is our sincere wish that, as time rolls on taking us ever farther apart, this book may frequently serve to transport us across the years, and place us once again, surrounded by our classmates, in the halls of C. H. L. S.

The Torch

A bold response, a valiant cry,
We fling the somber war-torn world;
Our youth to brave the battle nigh,
Our youth to frame a lasting peace.

Not ours, in doubt to flee all care
And grope in vain, for transient joys,
But ours to follow Freedom's flare
And take our places in the strife.

Our light shines through the dismal fray,
The glow of peace, of joy, and hope,
The gleaming herald of the day
That breaks from out the fading night.

In fear we shall not shun the light,
And turn our hearts in dazzled joy,
But with the potency of might,
Shall rear, as youth, an age to come.

And we who sailed the broad North Sea,
Or soared o'er Libya's dusky sands,
Shall know at home that life to be,
That peace to rule our warring world.

Our vestal fire, our torch of peace,
Shall flame through life, direct our aims:
The keepers of the flame will cease
To wield the deadly tools of war.

In youth these tasks lie yet ahead:
A war to pass, a peace to grow
Till all or tyranny be dead,
And Freedom's torch alone gleam bright.

Our youth will pass, our aims mount nigh,
And still that torch aloft will glow,
Will kindle many hearts that lie
Without the borders of our land.

Then grant us but Thy power to fling
Our torch to eager men beyond
That wait in hope on high to ring
The song of Freedom won!

O God of hosts, lift high our flame,
Make swift our strokes in battle dread;
Make keen and true our lives in aim
Till safe our souls have gained Thy rest.

Class Song

THE STREAM

Green, ripply, swirly, down to sea
As floating south in melody,
The streams of youth are gliding by
To distant suns in joyful cry;
A swelling, rolling tide,
A wave of men with God allied.

The youthful Mays, far banks of flow'rs,
Are rolling back with younger hours;
For currents never backward go,
But onward, forward ever flow;
A rising, building tide,
A wave of men with God allied.

Bold streams now join the ocean blue,
As youth, now men, old worlds renew
And meet the flux, an ocean great,
'Gainst full majestic flood of fate,
A soaring, roaring tide,
A wave of men with God allied.

CLASS HISTORY

JUANITA ROOP

FRANCES QUINT

In September, 1939, only a short time after the Nazis invaded Poland, we, the senior class, began our devastating march through C. H. L. S. Bloody skirmishes in unfamiliar territory took place each afternoon, against overwhelming odds. Juno and Diana, "non aequae," looked down at us from their lofty pedestals in the Latin School Hall. Unconscious of divine displeasure, we plowed unheedingly through territory well-fortified with books, typewriters, and upper classmen.

While the Germans rested on the laurels won in their September campaign, we pushed on to the decisive battle of Midyears; for many it was a major military disaster. However, with staunch spirit, we shouldered our book-bags and prepared for the encounters to come. Offsetting the victory of the Nazis in France, we successfully concluded the first of four great campaigns toward our goal of education, and faced the approaching year with confidence.

Lengthier encounters in new territory characterized our second major round of battle, for we were introduced to all-day sessions in new quarters. Nonchalantly we autographed the flowing robes of Juno and Diana, and, from day to day prepared with casual indifference the strategy of a new offensive. Some of us campaigned with Caesar in Gaul, and battled the proposition of Euclid; others vented their fury on typewriters and credit and debit sheets. With difficulty we laid low our most stubborn adversaries, the Pythagorean theorem and compound interest problems.

When not engaged in active combat, we divided our time among the G. A. A., the Dramatic and Glee Clubs, and various other social activities.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

We emerged at length from combat as seasoned veterans, raised from the ranks of lower classmen. At this time Mr. Cleveland for so many years, the admired and honored leader of our faculty left his command; his duties were assumed by Mr. Downey, who has efficiently followed the fine tradition of our school and has won the high esteem of both faculty and students.

While the Nazis approached Moscow, we plunged into the midst of typewriting exercises and the Catilinarian orations, in the vigor of the new campaign. Soon we busied with the selection of our junior officers, comprising Arthur Thomas, Ann Farr, Paul Morrison, and William Moriarty. Overshadowing the excitement of our election was the menace imposed by the sudden Japanese attack which drew us into a much more deadly conflict. Our daily life was greatly altered; many of the activities which we had enjoyed up until this time were given up for more useful courses in First Aid and Air Raid instruction. Thus we carried on a war on two fronts, striving to finish our education and to promote the success of our country's conflict. War stamp albums and Red Cross bandages became as numerous as whiffles and saddle shoes in the school corridors. Hardy with the growth of a new responsibility we emerged from battle a third time, scarred but undaunted.

This past year has seen many changes in our campaign toward education; we have spent our senior year under circumstances never before faced in all our school's history. Aeronautics and map-reading have drawn the interest of those about to enter the armed forces. Many of the girls are also preparing for their part in the war effort by adding to their regular studies special courses in nursing, home economics, and nutrition. Calisthenics have become a permanent part of our daily curriculum. Many of our fellow classmates have left their books and pencils for more active means of combat.

Elections, more bitterly contested than those of last year have resulted in the choice of William Reardon, Charles Mains, William Moriarty, and Paul Morrison as officers.

We have sailed with Aeneas to Northern Africa, where many of our former classmates have landed with General Eisenhower. We have reached our destination in safety while Hitler has fled the ruins of Stalingrad and Kharkov. Withstanding gas attacks of hydrogen sulfide in the chemistry labs, and the repeated warnings of College Boards, we have purchased our graduation pictures and rings in preparation for the day on which our goal is to be attained. After four years we have successfully concluded our campaign, and stand ready to bear our part in the great conflict of our times.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatic Club started off its year with a picnic. Nature being kind to us, she gave us a wonderful day in October. After about a half an hour hike we arrived at our destination singing lustily, if not musically. We ate our picnic lunch and spent the rest of the day dancing, playing games, going on hikes or just sitting around. Members of the club entertained us as we roasted weenies and marshmallows. After that we started out on our homeward journey.

At our Christmas meeting a play was presented. It was Christmas Spirit, written by Robert Guest and directed by Mary Broussard. The cast was as follows:

Jane.....	Marjorie MacArthur
Betty.....	Violet Soloman
Rita.....	Virginia Lyons
Mary.....	Catherine Cooper
Thersea.....	Vera Chevany
Mr. McLaughlin.....	Howard Smolar
Mrs. McLaughlin.....	Catherine Bolger
Stranger.....	Walter Cremens

DRAMA COMMITTEE
 Edwards, Savignano
 Geary, Patterson, Dillon

At our following meeting the play His First Love, directed by Jean Patterson, was presented by the following cast:

Fay.....	Pearl Balegno
Jimmy.....	Robert Guest
Peggy.....	Hilda Davis
Taxi Driver.....	Thomas O'Laughlin

The Dramatic Club also went to numerous theater parties. We visited our friends at Tufts to see their productions of Heaven Can Wait and Wuthering Heights. We also went to see Junior Miss and to Emerson to see Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. The latter was done in modern dress, and we all enjoyed seeing the famous Shakespearian characters of Benedict and Beatrice speaking their famous lines in evening dress and top hat, white tie and tails.

Once again the Dramatic Club had the privilege of entertaining the Blind of Cambridge. Those who took part in this entertainment were: Patricia Churchill, Anthony Travers, Pearl Balegno, Thomas O'Laughlin, Walter Cremens, Richard Harrington, John O'Brien, Frieda Pearlson, Robert Guest and Jean Patterson.

DRAMATIC CLUB OFFICERS
 Gagner, Rose, Patterson, McArthur
 Fleming, McCauley, Guest, Broussard, Bigler

We also competed in the Massachusetts Drama Festival. The play which we presented was a one-act melodrama by Essex Dane, entitled The Woman in the Freight Car.

The officers of the Dramatic Club for this year are:

President.....Robert Guest
 Vice-President.....Mary Broussard
 Secretary.....Virginia McCauley
 Treasurer.....Richard Fleming

Executive Committee: Gloria Gagner, Jean Patterson, Marilyn Rose, and Mary Alice Bigler.

Lester Crowley, who was president of the Dramatic Club last year and a member of this Senior Class, is now in the Air Corps. He is stationed at Shaw Field, South Carolina. We wish him the best of luck, and we know that he will "Keep 'Em Flying."

ROBERT GUEST.

Class Prophecy

Good evening, Ladies and Gentlemen! I am broadcasting to you tonight from the lobby of the Ritzy Plaza, where one of the biggest reunions in the history of Cambridge Latin is taking place. It is a wonderful sight to see all our old classmates being reunited once again. I'll try to make my way through the crowd and tell you who's who.

There's Charlie Mains, the owner of this hotel, and his assistant, Will Moriarty. Over here I see Dot Nash, Tina Levesque, and Helena Lucas, who operate a dress shop on Fifth Avenue. There is: Bill Reardon, who is playing with the Braves; Bob Heavern of the Olympics, Paul Heffron, Dick Henry, and Teddy Wadden, who are all Wall Street brokers. I recognize four of New York's most beautiful models, Margaret Smith, Anna Lundquist, Marion Looney, and Margie O'Connor.

I'll move along through this crowd and see what is causing the amusement in this corner. It is Virginia Reardon and Eleanor Murphy, still as witty as ever. We hear they are starring in Chuck Darling's new comedy, "Howdy, Mr. Fuller."

Over this way engaged in a controversy, are Eli Kaminsky, Richard McCabe, Dick Harrington, and Ernest Dzendolet, who are all well-known professors; and also interested are Juanita Roop and Frances Quint, who have found a new atomic theory.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

Here are Bill Breda and Joseph Agnetta with their eyes and ears open to get the highlights of the evening for their newspaper, "The Informer."

Just entering the hotel are General John Samuelson and Major Herbert Smith. Right behind them are Florence Chipman, Marie Scott, and Jean Patterson, who are nurses at the A. E. Corey Hospital.

The two policemen are Fred Whouley and Arthur Connelly, ready to spring into action.

Seated in a far corner are Deborah Edwards, Cecilia Geary, Eileen Prebenson, Margaret Bane, and Catherine Bolger, who are all Social Workers.

Dinner has just been announced, so I will take "the mike" down to the spacious dining hall which has been so beautifully ornamented for this occasion by those exclusive decorators, Pat Conway and Rosamond Kirk. The lavish floral display has been contributed by Marie Silva from her shop.

The orchestra is none other than Bill Anastos and his Jive Bombers. Bill plays the piano assisted by George Perutz. Beating it out on the drums, is Eugene Callender, while Walter Stearns and Lennie Mullins "give out" on the clarinets. The song they are playing is one of Anne Farr's latest hits.

Everyone is seated and our Master of Ceremonies, Bill Reardon, introduces the Rev. George Croucher, who will proceed to say grace. To start the dinner off, the waiters will now serve appetizing fruit cocktails. They are supplied by Margie Kelly from her Florida groves. The main course is furnished by the E. A. Flynn Provision Co.; the ice-cream for the occasion is supplied by the "Subtle Humor Ice-Cream Co." owned by James Ford and Roland Laine. The assorted confectionaries are made at the Gerry Poitrait Sweet Shop.

Once again the Master of Ceremonies rises to introduce a few prominent guests. First and foremost comes His Honor the Mayor, Paul Morrison, who has promised to refrain from his usual campaign speeches, giving preference to his sage and witty remarks. Next we hear from Bob Brown, holder of The World's Championship Ski Title. He has many exciting tales to tell us as he was a ski-trooper in the last war. Now we have a short word from that beautiful screen star, Eleanor Reagan, the Academy Award Winner of last year. Now we hear from Attorney Justin Teevin, an outstanding figure in the F. B. I.

It has just been announced that dancing and entertainment will now take place in the gigantic Crystal Ballroom. It'll switch over there. The band is playing and the couples are drifting out on the floor. There are Ruth Cunningham and Herbert Campbell, who are great Stage Stars. Beautifully gowned in one of her own creations is Gloria Gregware, who is a New York designer. Her partner, Cliff Ruggles, is a well-known news commentator on the N. B. C. network. The spotlight has caught up with Jane Gayton and Bob Guest, whose rhythmic steps have brought them to the top of Broadway. The charming young ladies serving punch are Mary

Merlesena, Barbara Morse, Dot Conroy, Gertrude St. Martin, and Nancy Cass, who are television stars.

The orchestra leader introduces his handsome tenor, Lenny Bulger, and his female vocalist, Fern Williams. As an added attraction we shall hear from Regina Avery and her guitar, accompanied by The Four Texas Rangers, Leonard Beswick, Charles Sullivan, James Connors, and Alex Stewart.

The next on the program will be a musical by a number of our fellow students, entitled "Let's Go for a Ride in Your P-38"; the Gentlemen are Charles Wyman, Clarence Dooley, Dick Twomey, Edward Oster, James Feloney, James Boyce, and James Finnegan; the Ladies: Mary Messina, Marjory McCormack, Barbara Suprenard, Eleanor Reardon, June Clark, Ruth Wyman, and Mildred Hawkes; the music was arranged by Ethel Filios; the costumes and scenery was supplied by the Leamon and Collins Art Studios.

Now Frank Tonkonow, and Charley Larsen will do their sensational juggling act. To end up the entertainment there is being presented a three-act play entitled "The Villain Strikes at Dawn." The hero is Bob Mulhern, glamour boy of Hollywood. The female lead is played by Marilyn Rose, while the villain is that big, bad man of the Western Thrillers, Johnnie Jones. The play was directed and produced by Joseph Corey of Paramount Studios.

As a climax to this happy and eventful evening, a grand march will now take place, led by Eleanor Carroll and Billy Maher. I'll get over to the reviewing stand and see who else is here that I haven't mentioned before. There are Mary Dillon, Gertrude Lornsky, Pat McCarthy, Joe McDavitt, Bunny McCool, Alice Boudreau, Bob O'Brien, Jeanne Fournier, John Cahill, Elliott Comenitz, Gloria Gagner, Marie Holmes, John Pitts, Peggy Fennell, Pat Churchill, Richard Fleming, Julia Shea and Nellie Laney.

The couples have formed in lines of eights and have come to a halt. And so as the strains of the Star Spangled Banner ring through the ballroom this unforgettable reunion comes to an end. We leave our old classmates tonight, with the hope of being united once again in the future.

THE REVIEW

The Cambridge Review completed its fifty-seventh year of publication successfully. For the first time in the history of the magazine, co-editors were appointed. They were Robert O'Brien and Richard Harrington. The popular column on swing continued by Robert Guest, while the alumni column functioned smoothly under the direction of Margaret Drolette. Eugene Callender and Carmaline Rose guided the ever-popular Spotlight through another busy year. The sports department was ably handled by Alex Stewart. Bill Dooley ran the business department smoothly and efficiently throughout the year.

We are very grateful to our advisors, Mr. Higgins and Miss Kelly, for their help during publication.

K. B.

K. B. has experienced something new this year. We have been partners of Uncle Sam in his war effort. This has been accomplished not so much by our tangible activities in assisting the Red Cross and the U. S. O., as by a whole-hearted spirit of co-operation with the judgment of those in authority who have seen fit to curtail the usual plans of the club as necessary safety precautions this war year.

Under the guidance of our understanding faculty advisors, Miss McElroy and Miss Buckley, K. B. will resume its normal activities only when peace bells once more gladden the world with their ringing, and hearts can truly be attuned to the carefree joys of dancing, picnicking, and happy planning.

Meanwhile, as best we can, K. B. will continue to make an "all-out" effort for victory.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

DURRELL DEBATING CLUB

The Durrell Debating Club of Cambridge High and Latin School was founded in 1914. It was named after Mr. Harold Durrell of the Class of 1901, who has taken a great interest in school affairs and has presented many cups and medals to outstanding student debaters of this school.

This year, the war conditions brought about a few necessary changes for the Durrell Club, the first of which was made by our Faculty Adviser, Miss Canney, who left us to join the Waves. The Club did not disband, however, much to the relief of its members. Miss O'Keefe became Faculty Adviser and we carried on, even though it was necessary because of the war to modify our activities.

Although we were unable to have any inter-school debates, we have held several very interesting discussions among our members. At one of the meetings, the abolition of the Electoral College was discussed. William Donahue presented the case in favor of dispensing with the Electors and John Conant defended the present method of electing the President. A very animated discussion followed, during which the members addressed questions to the speakers.

At another meeting, Arthur Corey presented a plan for dealing with Germany after the war. After questioning him thoroughly as to every feature of his plan, the other members of the Durrell Club gave their own plans for dealing with Germany and discussed post-war problems in general.

The Durrell Club had the privilege of attending the final trials of the American Legion Oratorical Contest held here in this school. Several members of the Durrell Club participated in the finals; several others assisted the judges in conducting the contest. We were naturally very proud that a member of the Durrell Club, Edward Oster, was the winner. He selected for his topic "The Constitution Threatened."

As in the past, the Annual Durrell Prize Debate will be held this year. The proposition will be on Federal World Government. This debate promises to be exciting, and thought provoking because the subject is so timely and controversial.

The Durrell Club was very proud to hear that one of its former Presidents, Jack Moriarty, now a student at Boston College, has won for a second consecutive year the Gargan Gold Medal awarded for excellence in debating and oratory. He declares that he owes his success to the training he received at High and Latin.

The officers of the Durrell Club for this year were: President, Eli Kaminsky; Vice-president, Walter Cremens; Secretary, Alan Balsam; and Treasurer, John Conant.

We of the Durrell Club are all very grateful to Miss O'Keefe for her untiring help and encouragement.

CHESS CLUB

As the C. H. L. S. Chess Club of 1942-43 was not under the supervision of any teacher, Ernest Dzendolet and George Perutz tried their best to make it as successful a season as they possibly could. The following officers were elected at the beginning of the year: George Perutz '43, President; Ernest Dzendolet '43, Vice-President; Robert Brown '45, Secretary; and John Loofburrow '45, Treasurer.

So far the first team has done very well. The second team, composed of many inexperienced players has won only one game. However, we are sure, that during the next two or three years, just these boys will bring about an undefeated season for Latin.

The following are the combined scores of the two teams in all of the matches played so far: C. H. L. S. 7—Huntington Prep. 3, C. H. L. S. 4—Boston Latin 6, C. H. L. S. $4\frac{1}{2}$ —Roxbury Memorial $5\frac{1}{2}$, C. H. L. S. 2—Brookline 8, and C. H. L. S. $6\frac{1}{2}$ —Huntington Prep. $3\frac{1}{2}$.

We wish the team of 1944 the best of luck, and hope they will have a very successful season.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls' Athletic Association holds a very dear place in our hearts, and every Senior girl regrets sincerely leaving this splendid organization.

The officers who so successfully carried out their duties for a most successful year were:

President	Marjorie Kelley
Vice-Pres. and Treasurer	Mary Messinger
	{ Mary Alice Bigler
	{ Frances Bolger
Executive Committee	{ Barbara Cook
	{ Isabelle Ford
	{ Barbara Rundlet

During the year we were very unfortunate to lose two of our officers, Faith Webster, who left to attend private school, and Barbara Murphy, who found it necessary to leave us. However, they were capably replaced by Barbara Rundlet and Isabelle Ford.

The G. A. A. felt very proud this year when they were able to buy a $50.00 war bond from contributions by our classmates and faculty.

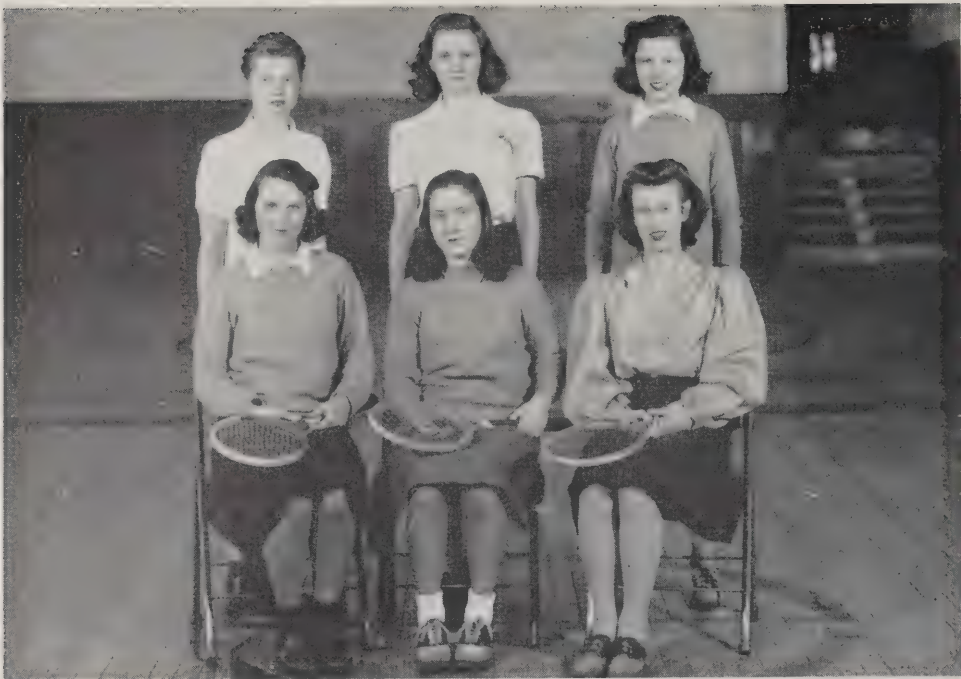

The Gym was the center of many very enjoyable parties. Among these were the Freshman Initiation, the Candle Light Ceremony, the Barn Dance, the Christmas Party, and the Boy-Girl Dance.

The parties were carried out by the officers and greatly aided by various committees of undergraduates.

Unfortunately, war prevented our annual G. A. A. Formal, but this disappointment was taken very graciously by the officers and students.

Our yearly picnic at Kendall Green will end the fun-festivities of the year.

This summary would hardly be complete without mentioning the great part played by our Faculty Advisor, Miss Brown, who has offered wise and friendly advice and has carried our burdens on her shoulders.

TENNIS

Front: Graham, Greene, Thiesing

TENNIS

The Doubles Tennis Tournament was held this year with the usual number of hopeful contenders. After many close and exciting matches and also some defaults, Mary Alice Bigler and Margaret Reynolds proved the capable winners. The runner-ups were Irene Petrowitz and Elizabeth Joaquim. The Singles Tournament will be held this spring.

GIRLS BASEBALL

At the present time baseball candidates are preparing for the season. We hope to have an inter-class series and a varsity that will continue the games we have had for many years with Arlington, Somerville, etc.

The Seniors are planning to come out in large numbers for their last fling at High School Athletics.

SWIMMING

Swimming was not started this year in mid-winter because of the dim-out. It finally got under way on March 11 at the Y. M. C. A.

A large group of girls showed overflowing enthusiasm in this healthy sport and many received excellent swimming instructions.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The Basketball Teams are composed of a group of fine girls who have displayed their loyalty and sportsmanship in that fascinating game.

Every girl on these teams keenly regrets that the practice sessions and games have come to an end.

This grand team led by their inspiring Captain, Mary Manning, was composed of the following:

Forwards: Theresa Burns, Elise Lane, Marjorie Kelley, Mary Kelly.

Guards: Alice Cooper, Marie Henry, Mary Manning, Genevieve Reilly, Byonida Roberts, and Eleanor Verrill.

Betty Cook may be placed in either group, as she capably played forward and guard.

Although they fought all the way, the team graciously lost to our visiting contender Arlington. This game furnished fun and amusement for all the girls. A game with Somerville was also set for March 8.

FOOTBALL

After considering the abolishment of football from Cambridge High Schools, the School Committee brought forth an idea of combining the Latin-Rindge teams. By the time the Combo Cambridge eleven was selected, other schools were conditioned and playing.

Latin-Rindge started rolling against a clever St. James eleven. Rindge's Bill Doran tallied the first marker on a brilliant end run, and completed passes to Bill Reardon for the next two touchdowns. The score of 18 to 0 was a good start for our boys.

Latin played their next games out of state against undefeated elevens from New Britain, Connecticut, and Providence, Rhode Island. Although we lost these, the succeeding game was the highlight of the season.

Despite the loss of Doran, Reardon and Hooker, the Cambridge team was able to hold Nashua, the New England Champs to a meager 14 to 7 score. However, this must be credited to the brilliant play of Darling, Brinkerhoff and Richie Aylward, who recovered a blocked kick for our lone touchdown.

A huge holiday crowd thronged to see the Cantabs blank a game Somerville team, 13 to 0. Bill Reardon scored the first touchdown, and Chuck Darling tallied the final on a neat end run.

Thus, the Cambridge eleven, rivals for so many years, worked together, ending the season in a blaze of glory.

First Row: Ernest, Olsen, Aylward, Heavern, Anechiarico, Blomquist, Sabatino.

BASEBALL

The Baseball Team of 1943 is expected to uphold the fine record set up by last year's eleven. Although many good prospects reported to Coach Sonny Foley, the following boys will probably comprise the team: Bill McLaughlin will cover the initial sack, Bob Heavern and Sabatino will make up the keystone combination, with third baseman Richie Ernest at the hot corner. Curve ball king Jim Blomquist and swift Bob Mulhern will divide the pitching duties to Dick Aylward behind the bat. Jim Feloney and Nil Olsen are fixtures in the outfield, with five or six candidates battling for the berth vacated by prexy Bill Reardon, when he signed with the Braves. All of these fellows are veterans of past years, and will endeavor to keep Latin at the top of the Suburban League. Competition will be close this year for the league championship, but with a bit of good luck, these boys should bring the championship back to Cambridge Latin.

HOCKEY

This year, the Cambridge Latin Hockey team was one of which we may be duly proud; not from the number of games won and lost, but from the athletic viewpoint. Never before have we had such a stellar group of players who would rather lose than play "dirty," who hold the high ideals of sportsmanship above a victory at any price. And to you students, never before have we had such a group of faithful rooters at each game. This is why we may be proud of the class of '43.

Playing the season entirely in the G. B. I. League, the team opened the year with stunning victories over Belmont and Arlington. After two disheartening defeats, came the unforgettable Melrose game with its riot, penalties and excitement. This was "the game of the year" ever to be remembered by players and fans alike. Even though they closed the 1943 season with a defeat, the team was superb in its last few games.

The line of Bill Reardon, Bob Heavern and Fred Whouley was chosen for the greater Boston All Scholastic Team. Bill Maher and Jim Feloney completed the remainder of the team, except for goalie Dick Ernest, who was considered one of the best in the league. With all of these boys graduating, Coach Culhane will have a hard job molding next year's sextet.

This group, we think, is the first of a long line of athletes who will play for the high ideals of the game, as well as for Cambridge Latin.

TRACK

Back Row: E. Murphy, Coach, Leal, Beswick, Clopstock, Mr. Connolly, Hathaway, Gilmore, Mr. G. Foley, Faculty Manager.

First Row: Collins, Griffin, Petrow, McDavitt, Braithwaite, Harrington, Sheehan.

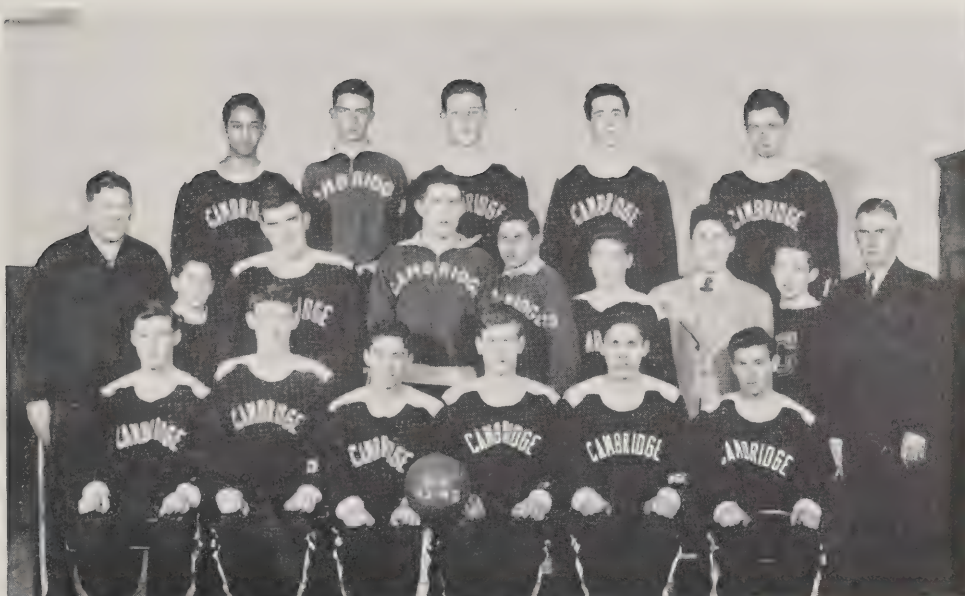

TRACK

With only one letter man, Captain Joe McDavitt, our one-man track team, back from last year's squad and the smallest number of candidates in years reporting, our new track coach Ed Murphy, from the Thorndike school, accomplished wonders in building the team up to one of the school's finest. The track team inaugurated its season by defeating Mission High of Roxbury in a dual meet 54 to 18 and later lost to Somerville High in a hotly contested meet, 41 to 31. Captain McDavitt starred in both of these meets and was aided ably by Henry Petrow, Billy Braithwaite, and Johnny Harrington.

At the Northeastern University meet, the relay team defeated Brighton High and in the State wide Championship Meet, the track team made a very creditable showing placing fifth out of a field of fifteen schools. At this meet, Captain McDavitt tied for first in the high-jump, Henry Petrow came in third in the 300-yard run, John Griffin was fourth in the shot-put, and the relay team composed of Henry Petrow, George Teal, John Harrington, and William Braithwaite tied for fourth.

The above-mentioned members, as well as Jimmy Collins, Ed Conley, Linnie Beswick, Leo Hollisian, Joe Quinn, Marion Gilmore, and Paul Hathaway, gave the team a good standing.

Coach Ed Murphy is looking forward to a successful outdoor season and has hopes of placing nearer the top in the State Wide Championship meet on the cinders.

Cambridge Latin quintet opened its season defeating Waltham High 31-24.

With this inspiration they went on to win 8 games out of the scheduled 15. Latin, for the first time in seven years, defeated its city rival, Rindge, by a score of 31-23. Rindge retaliated in the second game, winning in a thriller, 31-30.

Cambridge had beaten every league team except Newton.

The team was sparked all year by the shooting of Co-Capt. Joe Agnetta and the all-around team play of Co-Capt. Dick Aylward. Nelson Oleson, who joined the team after the first Rindge game, showed a capable brand of ball throughout the year. Mahoney and Lowrie were the guards and defensive stars.

This five was backed up by such capable men as Ed Anacherico, Charles Kelly, Ralph Sabatino, Paul Haskell and the Freshman Standout, John Parades. Mr. Joseph Kozlowski was serving his fifteenth year as coach.

GIRLS SENIOR BASKETBALL

The Senior team happily became the owners of silver basketballs given by the G. A. A. after they had won the interclass championship following a series of hard fought games.

The last game of this successful season will be the Alumni Game in which our present team plays girls of former years. This game is always looked forward to as a happy reunion.

Class Will

We, the class of 1943, hereafter to be known as the party of the first part, having no connection with any other party, Democratic, Republican, or birthday, being of sound mind and body, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament and do bequeath the following to these our beneficiaries:

To the Freshman Class, hereafter to be known as the party of the second part, we leave the free zing corridors, the suffocating rooms, and the girls' gym.

To the Glamorous Sophomore Class, hereafter to be known as the party of the third part, we leave the peek-a-boo bangs, the knack of hooking, and many days of hard studying.

To the Junior Class, hereafter to be known as the party of the fourth part, we leave the second floor with its lack of men, the click of the clocks in the old school, and the various odors produced by the chemistry class. We leave also all the stoves in the cooking rooms, which stoves may be used in making quick snacks for pupils and fudge for teachers of hard subjects.

To the Senior Class, hereafter to be known as the party of the fifth part, we leave the worry of pictures and rings, the strife of arranging a yearbook, and long summer afternoons dreaming of diplomas.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

To the athletic organizations we leave the hope of attaining more and more victories.

To the Review we leave the able-minded new Seniors, who no doubt will be of great assistance.

To Mr. Bramhall we leave a basket of big, juicy, red apples.

To Miss McElroy we leave a score of young ladies overflowing with glamour, who hope to attain charm.

To the nurse we leave an Eversharp pen with which to sign the "legitimate" notes of the students.

To those poor students who have twisted and strained muscles from the physical exercises, we leave a case of Sloan's liniment.

To the Latin students we leave a number of trots, which to many former students have been of inestimable value.

To the school in general we leave the three pianos, on which may be produced anything from Brahms to boogie-woogie. We also leave the hope of obtaining victory not only in war, but also in studies.

To the General Public, we leave hundreds of boys and girls who may someday be called the "Saviors" of our country.

In WITNESS WHEREOF, we, the undersigned, do hereby declare this document to be our last will and testament, having been duly stamped with our official seal, this 25th day of May in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and forty-three, and if any man knows why these things should not be, let him speak now or forever hold his peace.

Epilogue

The embodiment of all that is most important in life is set down in these pages. Each serene face, untouched by tyranny and fear, every statement of humor or inexperienced wisdom, graphically illustrates the Four Freedoms which former graduates are at this moment defending with their lives so that we may someday strengthen them with our minds.

If we, in our turn, pit our young might in the same cause, to enable future generations to know the unforgettable joys of yearbooks, photographs, and senior proms, we shall not have betrayed the trust and hope placed in us by our teachers and parents.
